NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS.

THE NEWS extends greeting this New Year's Day to its readers, to its friends and well-wishers, and to one and all we wish the new year that began at midnight may be one of happiness and prosperity.

Let your first resolution be if you are not a subscriber, to have your name placed on our list, and each one of the one hundred and four issues of THE NEWS will come to you regularly. You couldn't begin 1918 in a better way.

New Year's is a grand, an inspiring occasion, for it is always saturated with hope. We are wont to scoff and deride it as a day when men make good resolutions only to break them; when they turn over new leaves, as it is called, then calmly turn them back again. They want, they hope to be so much better, and a few of them are so. They determine to advance, and if they do advance they slip back. Their failures are many, they are continuous, and they often excite laughter. But it is worthier to determine and decline, to hope and be disappointed, than not to determine or to hope at all.

Therefore, let us welcome the New Year for what it promises to give, and let's all try to make a better Paris. As in the past, THE NEWS will be found trying to do its share at all times. We want to be counted on to do anything at any time that will help to advance the best interests of Paris and its citizens.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to one and all! May you live long and prosper!

THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT.

One of the strangest things that has been brought to the attention of THE NEWS man is the fact that Theodore P. "Topsy" Nix, of Paris, and President Woodrow Wilson, of Washington, D. C., were born on the same day, December 28, 1856. "Topsy" says that he appreciates the honor of having his natal day come on the same day as the President's, but he cannot understand how Woodrow got so far ahead of him in the race of life. "Topsy" sent the President a letter of congratulation, and reminded him that in these strenuous times if he needed a good friend he could rely on him.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

An examination for clerk-carrier to fill a vacancy in the Paris office will be held at the local postoffice on January 12. Full information may be obtained by applying to William Clarke, local Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, at the Paris postoffice.

An examination for clerks with a knowledge of stenography and type-writing will be held on the same date at the same place. Prospective applicants should write to the Secretary of the Civil Service Commission at Cincinnati, for full particulars of the requirements and qualifications necessary.

A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR—1918.

We desire to extend to our friends and patrons a wish for a happy and prosperous New Year. We also are highly gratified with the results of a most satisfactory business at our stores during the past year, just closed.

It shall be our aim during 1918 to take care of our trade in a courteous and business-like manner and give our customers good values for their money.

We appreciate the liberal patronage accorded us and respectfully ask a continuance of the pleasant relationship existing between our customers and ourselves.

FOOD CONSERVATION CATECHISM.

1. Why was the U. S. Food Administration organized?

To provide the needed supplies and to prevent the waste of food.

2. Why is such an organization necessary?

Because there is a food shortage in Europe. The people of Finland, Roumania, Serbia, Denmark, Sweden, and Holland are asking us for food. We have been helping to feed the starving population of Belgium since the war began, and our allies, England, France and Italy are calling upon us for supplies. Food in America must be properly handled in order that we may be able to send abroad as much food as possible.

3. What is the cause of the food shortage in Europe?

During the three years of war, between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 men have been killed in battle. These men were drawn from the farms and other domestic industries. In the armies at the front are many millions more. Add to these the thousands at work in munitions plants, and the fact that many of the most productive farms of Europe have been turned into battle fields. With farms destroyed and farmers, cattle raisers, and millers taken from their daily pursuits to fight for life and liberty, the food shortage is a natural result.

4. Is it a fact that the people of Europe are dying of starvation?

Yes. In Belgium where we have been able to help the most, the death rate has gone up over five times the rate in midsummer. The little children and the old people are dying off rapidly. It is the same in the other countries that have been devastated by war. The occupying armies suck out the life blood, the food supply.

5. How can we help these starving people?

If children dying of starvation stretched out their bony hands for the food you are eating, you would not hesitate, you would give it all, at once. The Food Administration does not ask you to do this. It does not ask you to sacrifice yourself, but simply to see that all waste is stopped, that every particle of food is made the most of, in order that there may be a larger surplus to send abroad.

6. How may waste be prevented?

In a large way, by the U. S. Food Administration, who control the movement of crops, watching the speculators in the markets, and the large handlers of food products.

In a small way by every individual who sees that no waste is permitted in the kitchen, the garbage pile, the shops, or on the farm.

7. What is the best food to send abroad?

The foods that keep well, and white flour. Perishable foods should be consumed at home.

Eat fish and other sea food, poultry and rabbits, instead of beef, mutton and pork. Fish, chicken, etc., cannot be shipped in compact form like meat, and are more perishable. Do not use either beef, mutton or pork more than once a day. Keep them to send abroad. Have one meatless day a week on Tuesday, and one wheatless day on Wednesday, and in addition make Saturday a porkless day.

8. Why should we eat less wheat?

Europe is suffering for wheat. We have already sent them the surplus of the 1917 harvest. It is far from enough. We are powerless to relieve all the suffering, but we can send what we are willing to save from our own tables. See that no wheat is wasted. Have at least one meal a day without wheat bread. Use instead corn, oat, barley or mixed cereal breads. Eat less cake and pastry.

9. Why not send the surplus of our corn crop to Europe?

We cannot send them corn because they have not enough mills to grind it and are not familiar with its use as food. Even if they knew how to use corn meal, it is not suitable for shipment because it is so liable to spoiling. The oats, rye, barley, etc., that we send them will not support them unless mixed with wheat.

We must send them more wheat, and to do this, we must eat less wheat bread.

10. What is needed besides meat and wheat?

Fats and sugar.

The American people are the greatest fat wasters in the world. In 1916 the fat consumption per capita in the United States was 125 pounds, which is more than three times the amount provided by the Standard Balance Ration, and seven times what the war ration allows the German people. Fats are useful in many ways in the production of munitions and other things needed to win the war. We must stop wasting fats when our soldiers and sailors and our fighting associates need them so desperately.

Use no butter in cooking. Cook with olive or cottonseed oils instead. Save lard by frying in vegetable fat or oil.

Try to use all left-over fats in cooking, but if there is some you cannot use, save it carefully, make scrubbing soap out of it, or sell it to the soap maker.

11. Why is there a sugar shortage?

Before the war, France, Italy and Belgium raised all their own sugar. Great Britain bought sugar from Germany.

Now France, Italy and Belgium cannot raise much sugar because their men are fighting, and Great Britain cannot buy sugar where she used to buy it.

All must now get sugar where we get it, and there is not enough to go around unless we save.

Save your cake and candy for the starving children abroad.

Eat half as much sweets as before and you still eat more than the Englishman or Frenchman or Italian or Belgian gets.

Use honey, maple syrup, corn syrup and sorghum instead of sugar.

12. What does the Food Administration ask in order that we may save the food needed to send to Europe?

One wheatless day each week and wheatless meal each day; the wheatless day to be Wednesday. By wheatless we mean to eat no wheat products.

One meatless day each week, which shall be Tuesday, and one meatless meal each day. By meatless we mean to eat no red meat—beef, pork, mutton, veal, lamb; no preserved meat—beef, bacon, ham or lard.

One porkless day each week in addition to Tuesday, which shall be Saturday. By porkless we mean no fresh or salted pork, bacon, lard or ham.

The answer of the patriots, be they men or women, to this request of the Food Administration is the simple, "We will." Consider the sacrifices it entails for us compared with the sacrifices that may be made in our behalf by the boys who enlist in our National Armies.

WHEN DO FASHIONS CHANGE?

This very curious question is given a logical interpretation in the January issue of Good Housekeeping. To quote:

"The question is about as easy to answer as that old conundrum, 'How old is Ann?' But, as a matter of fact, the best answer would be that fashions are always changing, and it is the subtle, little change that comes between seasons that frequently gives the note of the more radical change that comes with the turn of the season—be it spring or autumn. Just now the winter fashions are at their height.

"One is struck by two things. First, the simplicity that marks the really well-dressed woman, and second, the lavish use of fur. Logically enough, there is a war-time feeling that we should be moderate in dress, and this moderation is to be noticed—but, owing to the cold in Paris, furs have been employed for the reason for which they were originally intended, warmth. And we here have followed this fashion, not alone for its warmth, but for its beauty. Castor and nutria are worn more than any other fur, and are universally becoming."

The article is concluded with a number of very practical illustrations and suggestions.

ITALY IN THE AIR.

In spite of distractions along the northern front, Italy is maintaining supremacy in new air developments. One of her pilots recently completed a significant record-breaking flight when he flew with a passenger from Rome to London without a stop. The distance was 656 miles, and it was made in a little more than seven hours. The Italian Caproni machines are becoming well-known in the United States, as a result of the New York-Washington flights. The Rome-to-London passage was not made in a Caproni, but an Alfa.

OLIVE THOMAS TO VISIT NEW YORK.

Olive Thomas, who is working on "Limousine Life," her latest Triangle picture, is planning an Eastern vacation. Miss Thomas left for New York on December 17, and spent Christmas with her mother in Pittsburgh. She was accompanied by her husband, Jack Piekford.

Quite aside from the aviation corps a man can aim high in any branch of the service.
